Absence Management System 2009 (v5.3) - Released

AMS 2009 is now available on general release. Budgets are tight all over the world - but with the latest release of AMS you do not need to compromise on features or quality. Believe us it is still the best value for money product available in this space. If you have not already explored the potential of AMS for your business, we invite you to take a completely risk-free trial run of the software from the product website - www.amslive.com.

For existing customers the upgrade can also be downloaded from the product website and upgraded license keys will have been delivered automatically where there is an active software assurance agreement.

We're now also in the early stages of planning AMS Version 6.0 and again we invite feedback from you all - so please send us your requests either by email to info@keogh-software.ie or via our technical support forum.
